Charleston County and Fetter Health Care Network are currently working to schedule vaccine clinics in other rural areas of the County. These dates and times are tentative due to vaccine availability.

“We are currently focusing efforts on Charleston County’s rural areas because we know it can be difficult for many people to travel to one of our hospitals to get vaccinated,” said Charleston County Council Chairman Teddie Pryor. “We want to encourage everyone living in the St. Paul's area who is eligible and wants to get the vaccine to take advantage of this opportunity.”

“Our goal in offering these vaccination clinics is to make it more convenient to some of our most vulnerable citizens who do not live near hospitals or pharmacies offering the vaccine,” said Charleston County Council Vice Chairwoman Anna Johnson. “We ask that you be patient as we work with Fetter to offer more clinics in other rural areas as vaccines become available.”

“We would like to thank the Fetter Health Care Network for their continued partnership and assisting us in making vaccines available to our rural communities,” said Charleston County Emergency Management Director Jason Patno. “We would also like to thank the Charleston County Library for not only providing a location for this clinic, but for offering staff to assist with registrations.”
