This survey and community outreach efforts come as staff and the Charleston County Housing Steering Committee consider a broad range of strategies to promote the production of attainable housing, renovation of existing housing, and support for renters and homeowners. "We have a solid understanding of housing needs in Charleston County, and now we're exploring the tools at our disposal and detailing strategies that will work best for Charleston County residents," said Director of Housing and Neighborhood Revitalization Darrell Davis. "Charleston County is big and complex, and we're identifying what strategies will have the most impact and support throughout the county."

Housing Our Future is Charleston County's first comprehensive plan for housing and housing affordability. The plan will provide local officials, community partners, and residents with a clear understanding of the housing affordability needs and challenges facing Charleston County. It will also lay out a holistic set of policies, programs, and capacity building measures designed to help meet housing needs for years to come.
